ORIENTATION

It is all walking distance.

Almost everything in this guide sits inside about half a square mile of Old Town Scottsdale. The Entertainment District — roughly Camelback Road down to Stetson Drive, between Scottsdale Road and Drinkwater Boulevard — holds most of the nightclubs, and the rooftops and restaurants ring it. You can walk the whole thing in fifteen minutes, which is why the night moves between four rooms rather than staying in one.

Every venue in this guide carries its street address, and every listing on scottsdalenightclubs.com links straight to it in Google Maps for turn-by-turn. Use this page to understand the shape of the district; use your phone to get to the door.

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

House rules of the night.

Last call	2 a.m. statewide. Rooms stop serving before that, so the last useful hour is 12:30 to 1:30.
Peak nights	Friday and Saturday, plus event weeks. Thursday is easier, cheaper and often better.
Tables against lines	Groups of four or more on a peak night: take the table. The door queue is not a strategy.
Booking window	Dayclub cabanas fill three to six weeks out in season. Nightclub tables, one to two weeks. Event weekends, longer.
Dress codes	Enforced at the big rooms. No athletic wear, no flip-flops, collared shirts at several. We tell you which before you go.
Getting around	Rideshare or car service, always. Parking in the district on a Saturday is its own evening.
Season	March through May and September through November are the real season. July and August are pool-only.
Age	21 and over everywhere alcohol is served. Bring physical identification; several rooms will not take a photograph of it.

HOW WE WORK

Send one request. We take it from there.

Tables, cabanas, dinner reservations, hotels and transport, arranged through the venues and providers we already work with. Free to you — A Luxe Life Group LLC makes introductions and arranges access; venues, hosts and providers are independent businesses that set their own pricing and terms and contract with you directly, and we may receive a referral fee from them at no cost to you.
